Approach: From teacher-fronted to student-centered

Procedures:

1. Every teaching point has either a Power Point slide or a paper visual to illustrate the vocabulary and sentence pattern.
2. Teachers give demos for activities and tasks before asking students to practice
3. Students have chances to go onto the stage to perform activities and tasks after practice.

Class #1

Vocabulary--- bus, car, light rail, taxi, air plane; by bus, by taxi, by car, by light rail, by air plane; drive, bike, ride bike, walk.

Sentence Structure: (1) How to get to...? (2)First ...and then ....

1. Warm up (5 mins)
  - a. Greeting;
  - b. Sing the “Hello Song”
  - c. TPR: Student volunteers to go to the front and do the action; others say what he/she does with a sentence “他/她 先…然后…”(daily activities)
2. Practice (43 mins)
  - (1) Teach: transportation means (3 mins)

- a. Teacher-fronted: Show a PPT slide (including Chinese character, Pinyin and visual picture) of all kinds of colorful transportation means
- b. Teacher-fronted: Guide the students to read after teacher “che”
- c. Student-centered: Give a handout with all kinds of colorful transportation means to students. Review colors and have students do pair work to tell each other “I want/ like red car/yellow car...”
- d. Student-centered: Have some pairs to give report

(2) Teach: bus, car, light rail, taxi, air plane (7 mins )

- a. Teacher-fronted: Show the PPT slides (including Chinese character, Pinyin and visual picture) of bus, car, light rail, taxi, and air plane.
- b. Students repeat what teacher says 2-3 times; and then teacher asks individual student about the vocabularies with pictures. To the difficult one “chu zu che (Taxi)” , teacher has each student say the word loudly. If the students have difficulty in pronunciation, teacher will recast the correct one to him/her.
- c. Student-centered: Given different pictures of bus, car, light rail, taxi, and air plane, students walk around to compare (review comparison)his/her transportation means with other students’. Before that, teacher will give demo and review the opposite words such as big, small, expensive, and cheap.
- d. Student-centered: teacher points at students at random and have they compare their transportation means with the picture at their hand.

(3) Teach: by bus, by car, by taxi, by plane, by light rail (6 mins)

- a. Teacher-fronted: Introduce new words by bus, by car, by taxi, by plane, by light rail with TPR actions and PPT visual aids.
- b. Teacher-fronted: Teacher does the action and students say what the teacher does.
- c. Student-centered: Divide students into TWO groups. Group A say the words and Group B do the action. Then, Group B say the words and Group A do the action.

(4) Teach: drive, bike, ride bike, walk & micro review (10 mins )

- a. Teacher-fronted: Introduce new words drive, bike, ride bike, walk with TPR actions and PPT visual aids.
- b. Teacher-fronted: Teacher does the action and students say what the teacher does.
- c. Student-centered: Students volunteer to go to the stage to do the action and others say it out loud of what he/she does.
- d. Student-centered: Pair work ---teacher gives a handout with all kinds of transportation means they just learned to students. Students are grouped into pairs and take turns to ask each other “Do you often (review) drive/walk...?”; “I often/seldom...”. Before the pair work, teacher gives demo.

- e. Student-centered: Different pairs of students come up to the stage to do report.

(5) Teach: How do you get to...?; I get to...by...(10 mins)

- a. Teacher-fronted: teacher gives demo “Ms. Lin, ni zen me qu xue xiao?” ; Ms Lin replies “Wo zou lu qu xue xiao”
- b. Teacher-fronted: Teacher shows more pictures of various places and has students say the sentence structures several times. Body language is used to illustrate the meaning of the sentences.
- c. Student-centered: Students are divided into pairs to practice the sentence structure by talking about how they go to places such as school, Chinese restaurant, American restaurant, China, stores etc. (they have learned those places in previous classes)
- d. Student-centered: After practice, students volunteer to go to the stage to give report.

(6) Teach: change (transportation means); First....and then...(7 mins)

- a. Teacher-fronted: With two different pictures of transportation means, teacher illustrates the meaning of “huan” . Then, teacher uses PPT slide to reinforce what “huan” means.
- b. Teacher-fronted: teacher gives demo by using sentence structure: Teacher A says “xian zuo gong gong qi che, ran hou huan di tie”. Teacher B switches the picture from “gong gong qi che” to “di tie” .
- c. Student-centered: Students are divided into Two groups and have peer competition. Each group picks out one student to come to the stage. Others say the sentence “xian ...ran hou huan...” (transportation means) . After the two students hear the sentence, they compete to pick out the pictures and repeat the sentence. Teacher keeps the score for two teams and check out which team can win the game at the end.

3. Closure (2 mins)

Teacher summarizes what students have learned in this section and discusses questions with students.
