

My interest in being a Chinese teacher dates back to 12 years ago when I was asked to teach at a weekend Chinese school, where I enjoyed working with my students. Thankfully, seven years later, I became a certified Chinese teacher after being a research technologist for five years at Arkansas Children's Hospital. Currently, I teach at Gilmour Academy and St. Angela Merici School. I have opportunities to teach both high school and primary school students. I have also worked at Cuyahoga Community College as a math tutor for eight years. Besides teaching, I like traveling and shopping. I also enjoy eating. Now, I live in Cleveland, Ohio with my family.
