

Future Professional Goals

My future professional goal is to be a Chinese teacher in elementary or middle schools after graduation. To achieve this goal, I will try my best to enhance my teaching skills in order to be a qualified Chinese language teacher in America. First, I will try to use more than 90 percent target language and more authentic materials in class, in order to increase input as much as possible. Second, I will have my students as the center of my classroom and design more communicative activities. Last, I will try to create a more relax and orderly environment for students to learn, since learning can only take place when students are in a safe productive environment.
